MAURY COUNTY

FAMILY AND COMMUNITY EDUCATION CLUBS

Strengthening homes and families through education, leadership development, and community service

UT | Extension

What is fce?

Family and Community Education clubs began as Home Demonstration Clubs. Since their beginning, fce clubs have been an outreach program of the University of Tennessee Extension to improve families and communities through education, leadership development and community service.

When and Where are meetings held?

Each club holds monthly meetings throughout the year. Some meet in community centers and others in homes or community buildings. County wide council meetings are held quarterly with other special county-wide events planned throughout the year. Each club's officers may also plan additional workshops, tours, or other special events. Members are encouraged but certainly not required to attend all meetings and activities.

What do we do?

Members participate in a variety of club meetings, activities, and service projects. Many clubs plan tours and craft workshops along with or as part of their monthly meetings. Educational programs are also a part of regular club meetings.

Some county-wide activities include:

- * Assist with Red Cross Bloodmobile
- * Imagination Library sponsorship
- * Maury County Fair
- * Dairy Recipe Contest
- * Holiday Foods Program
- * Awards Day & Fashion Revue
- * Regional fce camp
- * Cultural Arts contest
- * Fce area-wide day camp
- * Regional Annual Meeting
- * Creative Writing contest
- * 4-H volunteer leaders
- * Farm Day tour guides

Who can join and how much are dues?

fce clubs are open to any interested persons. Dues are only $7.00 a year. This includes state, district, and county dues and a yearbook.

How do I join?

Contact the UT Extension office or complete the form on the back of this brochure to join a local fce club. Select which club you would like to join and your information will be given to that club's president. You will then be invited to attend the next club meeting. You are welcome to visit before deciding to join. If there is enough interest, new clubs will be forming also.
